FOR THE INDIANA. A Beautiful Silver Service From the There is now on exhibition in New York city a beautiful silver service, just completed by Tiffany & Co. for presentation to the battle ship Indiana by the citizens of the Hoosler state. The service, with the massive oak-bound chests, makes a brilliant display. The whole service is of sterling silver, 925-1000 fine, and consists of about forty pieces, weighing 200 pounds. Almost all the pieces are large ones. The keynote of the artistic and graceful decora-tions is the beautiful centerpiece. This is a large flower or fruit dish, measuring 28 inches and some 10 inches in height. Its graceful rolling form suggests the rolling a tendency to overburden this service with purely nautical subjects has been studiously avoided. In the center, on either side of the centerpiece, are large medallions, one bearing in relief the seal of the state of In-diana, and the other, also in relief, a fac simile of the famous soldiers' and sailors' monument in Indianapolis. The centerpiece weighs 207 ounces, or nearly 25 pounds. It is richly gold-lined, and over the top is a silver-gilt wire network covering for cut flowers, which can be removed and the dish used as a jardiniere; or, if the lining is taken used as a jardiniere; of, if the lining is taken out, it will also serve as a fruit dish. Ranking next to this in richness of effect, come the massive candelabra, having nine lights each. They stand 22½ inches high, exclusive of candles and shades, and weigh over 36 pounds. The large salver, another of the pieces, is oblong in form, 24 inches long, and weighs over 200 ounces. The tea set, consisting of tea kettle, stand and lamp, tea pot, coffee pot, sugar bowl, cream pitcher and slop bowl, weighs over 200 ounces, so that the tray and tea service alone weigh over 34 pounds. Then there is the massive punch bowl, with a capacity of four gallons. The silver is fitted into three handsome and substantial oak chests three handsome and substantial oak chests lined with red chamois and bound with brass, and bearing brass plates suitably inscribed.

GREAT RACING

(Copyrighted, 1896, by Associated Press.)

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 8.-After somewhat noisy night, during which the friends of the Yale men made Henley rather lively, even for a regatta night, the second day of rowing opened hot, humid and with variable breezes. The course presented the same animated and crowded scene as yesterday, but everywhere there was a marked absence of the Yale and American colors. On all sides were heard expressions of regret at the defeat of Yale, even among the Leander men, who were the victors in the contest. This regretful feeling was more particularly noticeable in the people of Henley proper, for the sudden flight yesterday of crowds of Americans deprived this little town of a great leal of the golden harvest which it reaps during the one week of the year in which t awakens from its quiet slumbers and becomes about as interesting and thickly populated a place as one could possibly Yale Men All Well.

The members of the Yale crew, however, were not among those who departed from the battlefield. They were all well this morning and occupied reats on the grand stand, where they were the object of much interest and the recipients of much hearty, spertsmanlike sympathy. The interest of the day centered in the contests for the diamond sculls and the grand challenge cup. In the fifth heat of the diamond, Hon. R. Guinness, holder of the trophy, beat Vivian Nickalls, and in the fifth heat for the grand challenge cup, Leander beat New College. These were both popular victories. Yet there was a lack of that grand enthusiasm displayed yesterday upon the occasion of the race between Yale and Leander. Dr. McDowell of Chicago was looked upon as a certain winner today before his heat was started, and there are many people who prophecy that he will win the diamond sculls to morrow. The American sculler's fine dis-play of rowing skill and power has com-challenge cup, and it increased when the crews got away. Leander had the Bucks station, and won by half a length. Barring accidents, the experts say, Leander is now certain of winning the grand challenge cup.

The umpires' launch carried the coaches of the crews, including "Bob" Cook, to the starting point, where both crews were waiting. The crowd at the start was larger than yesterday. Both boats got away promptly, the crews rowing a tremendous stroke of over forty-three. New College shot ahead, and on clearing the island had a lead of a quarter of a length. At the end of a minute, New was clear of Leander. faces, were pulling forty-two.
"They've got it," said the Leanders' coach

This turned out to be a false alarm, for the Leanders, led by Gold, who was pulling on him. a magnificent stroke, began slowly to overhaul the New College men. Finally Fawley Court was reached in 3.20, with New College still leading, but steering wide, and evidently in trouble. At the Meadows the two boats were level, and at the mile Leander was leading by two men. Time, 5m.

New, however, would not give up, and it looked like a desperate finish. Just at that point the wind, which had all through the race been blowing strongly from the southwest, came in strong gusts, fairly stopping the New College boat, and Leander won the the New College boat, and Leander won the hardest-fought race ever seen at Henley.
Guy Nickalls, the No. 6 of the Leander boat, was worth two men, and especially at the finish, when he seemed to pull the boat coach of New College: "Well, old man, it can't be helped. It was the station which did it. You had the race won but for that."

Badly Used Up. Both crews were terribly exhausted. Dawson of the New College crew tumbled over, Naturally, such an exciting race caused the greatest enthusiasm ashore, and the Yale men were especially delighted at the fact that their victors would in all probability get the cup.

In the opinion of experts, if Yale had rowed under the conditions which prevailed today, she would have won, as the Bucks station was worth at least two lengths.

The heat between the First Trinity and the Thames Rowing Club was won by the fore the New College-Leander race, was also a splendid exhibition of rowing, but here again the station won.

James O. Rodgers, No. 4 of the Yale crew, referring to the New College-Leander race said:
"No one can tell, unless he has been there, what the feeling is at the close of such a race. It seems that every breath in your body is drawn, and there is a strong ringing in your ears."

Coxswain Clarke said: "I am very glad Leander won, for it shows what we Bailey, No. 5 of the Yale boat, remarked:
"What a race that was. New College rowed almost to the finish without a quiver, and then suddenly dropped their blade work. It was superb, but Leander is the strongest crew on the river."

Other Heats. In the fourth heat for the grand challenge cup, Thames beat First Trinity. The second heat for the Thames challenge cup, eight-oars, Trinity Hall beat the Kingston Rowing Club. In the fifth heat for the grand challenge cup, Leander beat New College. In the fifth heat for the diamond sculls,

A Practical Charity Begins Its Far-Reaching Work.

The Addresses Delivered Last Night-One Case Where the Institution Has Done Good Already.

"I want to thank the editors and managers of The Star," said Rev. S. G. Lam-kins, paster of Salem Baptist Church, at the dedication last evening of the Sojourners' Home, No. 1724 10th street northwest, "for their kindness in sending one of their representatives to the meeting that is being held here tonight. It shows that The Star is always on the alert to develop what is intended to lift the people up, and to me it is especially gratifying that now, when the attention of almost our entire population is taken up with the great Christian Endeavor convention, The Star should remember this infant institution and make its proposed benefits known."

These remarks were made by Mr. Lam-kins in the course of deloquent and earnest address in the presence of a gathering which comprised some of the foremost of the local humanitarians of the colored race, ard were heartily indorsed by all who deed, it was said by one of the jurymen heard them.
The Star last week published an account of the opening of the doors of the Sojourn-ers' Home to the poor women who make their living at service in families, and when their day's work is done have in many instances been compelled to seek rest in an uncomfortable room in some alley, many times as much as a mile away from their place of employment, but the building was not formally consecrated until, as stated, for Frederick, Cary Kingdom told him last evening.

The indefatigable president of the institution, Miss Mattie R. Bowen, had within the past few days sent invitations to all the colored ministers of the city to attend the opening services, but all, with the exception of Mr. Lamkins and Rev. D. E. Wisems of the Lutheran Church, Sth street above Florida avenue, were so much occupied with preparations for the entertainment of visiting Christian Endeavorers that it was impossible for any of them to be present, and it was only at much difficulty, on account of pressure of other church duties, that Messrs. Lamkins and Wiseman were able to do so.

The Addresses.

Mr. Lamkins' address was not lengthy, but was an eloquent presentation of the facts which led Miss Bowen, Mrs. Rosetta Lawson and other Christian women to found the "Sojourners' Home," and he predicted that from the institution there would go out an influence for good that could not at this time even be estimated. In concluding his remarks, Mr. Lamkins play of rowing skill and power has com-pletely altered the tone of the Henley com-ments upon his chances and won him assured the president and managers of the home that they could command his services at any time, and it would afford him the

In conversation with a Star reporter, Miss Bowen last evening told how the Sojourners' Home was the means of saving a poor colored woman from going to the work house. "The only offense of the woman, whose name was Sarah Wilson, was," said Miss Bowen, "that, unable to pay her rent, she was ejected by her landlord from her humble lodgings, and for three days had sat, with her few articles of housekeeping, in the alley into which they were thrown, having no place to go.

"An officer came along, saw her sitting there and arrested her on the charge of vagrancy. The woman was taken to the Police Court and arraigned before Judge Kimball, to whom the circumstances were explained, and who at once took a most kindly interest in the case.

"It seemed as though there was no way to keep the woman from the work house, and to be separated from her eight-yearold boy, to whom she was devotedly attached, despite her poverty, when the thought occurred to Judge Kimball that he completely done up, and the Leanders were in little better condition. thought occurred to Judge Kimball that he had read in The Star something about a 'Sojourners' Home' for colored people, and he sent word to Messrs. E. M. Hewlett and M. M. Holland to come to the court and tell him something about the lastitution.

Seeming Intention to Ferret Out the Randolph Murderers.

EVIDENCE AT THE INQUEST

Sheriff Collier and His Denials

of Some Statements.

GOVERNOR LOWNDES' OPINION

Correspondence of The Evening Star.

ROCKVILLE, July 8, 1806. The inquest into the murder of Sidney Randolph was continued by Magistrate Charles Jones and a jury at the court house here last night, and the fact that it was again adjourned until next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock gives a ray of hope that a majority of the jury is determined to discover something definite about the affair before rendering a verdict. Inafter the hearing was over that the inquest would be continued from time to time until the grand jury meets in November, if such a course was deemed necessary. The most important testimony given at last night's Randelph was to be lynched that night. The next morning, while in Frederick, at Dall's Hotel, the party he was with, which was composed of members of the Rockville Base Ball Club and their friends, were discussing the probability of Randolph's hav-ing been lynched during the night, when Somerville Bean offered to bet a dollar that the lynching had taken place. Harry Dawson took Bean's bet, and the money was posted in the hands of Mr. Veirs, but Dawson then drew the bet, declaring that Bean evidently was on the inside and knew too much. Mr. Veirs also testified that when the train on which he was a passenwhen the train on which he was a passenger passed Gaithersburg he saw Deputy Sheriff Horton G. Thompson and told the latter he had heard that Randolph would be lynched that night and that he should not let an innocent man be lynched.

Cary Kingdon swere that Harry King.

Cary Kingdon swore that Harry King had told him Friday evening that Randolph would be lynched that night. Somerville Bean had asked him not to go to Frederick that night, but to stay "and see the fun," but Bean had afterward said he was loking.

Harry King testified that Somerville Bean had come to his store about 4 o'clock Priday afternoon and said that Randolph was to be lynched that night. Bean said he had the news pretty straight.

Very great interest was taken in the appearance of Mr. R. L. Buxton on the stand. He gave fits testimony in a matter-of-fact way, stating that he had spent Priday night last, during which Randolph was lynched, at the house of Mr. Carson Ward, and that he first heard of the lynching at a store in Gaithersburg on Saturday morning.

Mr. Carson Ward, who was the first witness called, had testified to Mr. Buxton's spending the night at his house, and sleeping with him. James English, John Selby, William James English, John Selby, William Coombs and John and William Snouffer give unimportant testimony.

When Somerville Bean's name was called there was no answer, and State's Attorney Kilgour stated that a summons issued for Bean had not been served, as he was out of the county. It is said an attachment will be issued to compel his attendance next Monday.

parties to the jury unknown, and there was not a little surprise when the announce-ment was made that further sittings would

There appeared in this correspondence last Saturday a recital of the circumstances of Randolph's having been taken out of jail and given the impression that he was in danger of being lynched in order to extort a confession from him. In Monday's issue Sheriff Collier was given as authority for this statement. This caused considerable feeling in certain quarters against the sheriff, and last night he gave out a lame and impotent explanation in the shape of the following card: "In reply to communication in The Evening Star of Saturday last, wherein it was stated that Randolph had been taken out of the Rockville jall and threatened with lynching, in order to extort a confession, I wish to make a statement. He was never taken from the jall at any time for such a purpose, and he was never threatened in any shape or form. I did state that we put him under a vigorous sweating, which accomplished nothing, to my mind. These instances were always witnessed by either newspaper men or county officials. Ran-dolph never left the jail, except in my presence, and there were but two instances where he was taken out of prison before the lynchers carried him away. "J. W. COLLIER, Sheriff." The Star correspondent never said Ran-dolph had been threatened with lynching, He repeated exactly what Sheriff Collier had told him: that he (Collier) had taken Randolph out in the woods, and made the prisoner believe that the lynchers were at ter him; that he told Randolph he didn't dolph didn't have more than one chance in ten thousand, but that a truthful state-ment might secure that chance for him. Then Sheriff Collier told The Star reporter that Randolph replied that he knew he was going to be hung, because the people had made up their minds to do it. Two min-utes after Sheriff Collier told The Star reporter this, while seated on the bench in front of the Montgomery House, the re-porter went to Vinson's drug store and wrote the following in his note book: "Collier: Randolph said I know they's goin' ter hang me; that they done made up they mind ter do it. I'se on'y a nigger, 'ithout er fren' or a cent. I didn't hab nuthin' ter do 'ith hittin' dem people. I never wuz in dat town ter my knowlidge till dem men caught me and tuk me dar." Sheriff Collier's memory is evidently short, for he told Mr. Samuel Riggs the same thing, and Mr. John Kelchner of Rockville is also aware of the occurrence.

Governor Lowndes thinks Sheriff Collier

is at fault in the matter of the taking off of Randolph, as shown in his Baltimore of Randolph, as shown in his Baltimore interview.

There seems to be a general impression in this neighborhood that the newspapers should keep quiet, and give no space to considering the outrageous affair, and covert threats and cowardly insinuations are directed against the representatives of the papers, as well as the independent citizens, who have the courage to characterize the murder of Randolph as it properly deserves.

Rev. James E. Mason, D.D.

Rev. James E. Mason, D. D., was born in Wilkesbarre, Pa. At an early age he began preaching and soon joined the Genesee conference. After serving churches at Binghamton, Norwich, Syracuse, Ithaca and Rochester, he was chosen presiding elder. In 1884, 1888 and 1892 Dr. Mason was a delegate to the general conferences and is head of the delegation this year from his conference to the general confererce at Mobile. He is down for an address at John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church this evening.

No Free Base Ball.

There is no longer to be any competition with the bleachers, and the boys and men who have heretofore paid 10 cents for seats on housetops, from where they could witness the games of base ball, will now have to pay 25 cents or deprive themselves of to pay 25 cents or deprive themselves of the pleasure of witnessing the games. Thomas H. Myers and George W. Grice, who were proceeded against for "giving un-licensed entertainments," have promised to discontinue the practice. The prosecutions were really instituted because the practice was considered dangerous, in view of the fact that the houses are frame structures. Because of their promises the charges against them were rolle prossed today.
